

Angel Tech

www.angeltech.co.uk

"A sum that is greater than its beautifully compelling and brilliant parts" – DJ Magazine

"Delicate and simple, but still majestic" – NME

"This is sci-fi music magic and it's very cool" – Unpeeled

"Sparkling, dissenting mesmerics" – Venue

"Like nothing else on earth" – Choke

"It is almost impossible not to fall head over heels, totally and utterly in love with this bunch of mental ambient pop crafting mentalists" – Subba-Culture

"An album that speaks to everyone, but is never ordinary"
– Is This Music?

"Melodious and joyous" – Pow Pow Pow

"The aural equivalent of a David Lynch film" – UK Music Search

"Makes me want to cry tears of unabashed joy" – Spill

Bristol's Angel Tech merge blissed-out electronica with the rattle & clatter of a 3-piece guitar band to create unique future-pop.

Their last album, eponymously-titled Angel Tech, was released at end of 2006. Off-kilter and yet accessible, it's a short but sweet record, packed full of subversive pop stories: at times joyful, barbed, playful, modern, danceable, intelligent and sometimes just beautiful. This award-winning and acclaimed longplayer is distributed in the UK by Cargo, and is available on iTunes, Amazon and many other good online stores. Listen to it here!

Since its release, Tim, Doug & Neil have turned their attentions to a number of projects. As well writing material for a new album, Angel Tech are composing an original electro-acoustic soundtrack to Carl Theodore Dreyer's classic silent film 'The Passion Of Joan Of Arc'. The soundtrack will be performed live at screenings of the film and work is also underway to secure a DVD release. And a new collaboration with performance company Bodies in Flight is in the early stages of planning, and follows their previous collaborations Skinworks, Who By Fire and Secrecy of Saints.

- Angel Tech online: Angel Tech's website, myspace, reviews and Last FM.
- Brain-Gel online: Brain-Gel's website and myspace
- Read Tim Angel Tech's blog about the making of Angel Tech at www.washingup.blogspot.com

For further information, please contact Doug at Brain-Gel on 07940 503535 or doug@brain-gel.com